Product Summary

'I'm not a doctor, I'm a scientist' - a common phrase used by scientists to distinguish their work from medicine. But what does it mean to be a scientist? In this video, we explore the history of science and the role of scientists in society. We look at the scientific method and how it has been used to discover the laws of nature. We also discuss the ethical implications of scientific research and the importance of transparency and accountability in the scientific process.
